

John Kempton, DDS, FACD

Are your patients having heart attacks and strokes? Do they have diabetes or suffer with other chronic inflammatory diseases? When is enough, enough!?

Dental teams are the frontline in patient primary care. What we do matters. Join the movement to implement life extending clinical practices in your hygiene program now. We are the solution for diminishing the effects of chronic disease in this country, starting with our patients.

Dr. John Kempton's mission to treat high-risk pathogens in high-risk patients is driven by passion and personal experience. His life and practice took on a new direction and urgency when a patient who had been referred for extractions by a cardiologist died of a heart attack a week later. Another patient told him shortly thereafter that her husband had died under similar circumstances six months earlier. These events changed his focus in dentistry and posed a question he now issues as a challenge to every other professional in the field: "What are 'we' going to do about it?"

Dr. John's expertise and qualifications come from decades of success in clinical dentistry, extensive research and knowledge in the relationship of high risk pathogens to chronic disease, and a rare passion and commitment to elevate dentistry to its rightful position as primary care amidst a chronic disease crisis in this country.

Dr. John's evidence-based presentations are lively, interactive, and inspirational. Drawing from patient stories and case studies, along with a 100-page proprietary training manual and easy-to-implement steps and clinical protocols, Dr. John makes transformational change simple and achievable for dental professionals who want to take patient care to the next level.

A graduate of Loma Linda University School of Dentistry with forty years practicing comprehensive restorative dentistry, Dr. John has also completed post-graduate continuums in reconstructive dentistry, Dawson Academy's Dental Institute for Systemic Health, and the medical Bale-Donneen preceptorship for cardiovascular health. He has been published in peer-reviewed journals and is a past or present member of ADA, MDA, Peer Review Chair, AAOSH, FACD, and Directory of Dental Speakers.

Testimonials

"Dr. Kempton's Oral Systemic Health program has transformed the hygiene area of my practice. This program has made an impact at the level of placing implants and CEREC has on the bottom line. We went from the constant frustration of an open hygiene schedule to booked solid 4-6 weeks out. It quickly cements value in the patients mind for their periodontal health. I highly recommend implementing this into your practice!"

—Brock Arms, DDS; Cadillac, MI

"Dr. Kempton shares both personal experiences and evidence-based research. Each team member has an individualized role in the movement to reduce chronic disease. We have gained valuable tools and guidance to launch the incorporation of oral systemic medicine throughout the entire office. Dr. Kempton delivers an abundance of knowledge in an effective and interactive way"

—George Mantikas DMD; East Hampton, CT and Angela Litvak DMD; Naples, FL

"I had the privilege of learning more about how oral pathogens impact overall health from Dr. Kempton. I implemented his system regarding dental and systemic risk with my patients. His manual is the most thorough and complete I have seen to date and is based upon current research. The game has changed and Dr. Kempton is a leader in the oral systemic movement!"

Easy to Implement on Monday Morning

"Wow! What a great course. As a practicing dentist, John Kempton knows the material inside and out and presents it in a way that engages every team member. The material is organized in an 'easy to implement on Monday morning' format that will provide structure to elevate your hygiene department to an Oral Therapy department. Having 'oral therapists' instead of hygienists makes my restorative work better and I know that our patients are benefitting. Healthy mouths make healthy lives!"
